

Paralysis is Not Nerve Death, for It is Curable.

From the Journal, Lewiston, Mich.

Patrick Doyle, a man more than seventy years of age, called at this office recently and gave a remarkable account. Everyone knows the nature of paralysis and how difficult it is to cure, so that his testimony is extremely interesting. He said:

"About six or seven years ago I was afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism, contracted while at work in a Manistee saw mill, and had to quit work on that account. Then came a long time of despair for me. My lower limbs became numb and cold and I lost the use of them almost entirely. For a long time I was unable to stand on my feet without support. For four years I could not think of doing any kind of work.

"I treated with many eminent doctors without deriving any benefit. I spent more than $100 in one summer for medical treatment which failed to help me. The local doctors could not give me any encouragement, and, in fact, did not know what my ailment was. I became tired of doctoring, and for a year I did nothing for my trouble, considering that my case was hopeless. By this time the life was gone out of my legs, and I could not bend them at all, the cords being hard as bone. The cold occasioned me great pain. I could not walk at night, and when I moved around in the daytime I had to watch the ground each step, and then could only hobble along with the use of a cane.

"Hope had about gone out of my life when I read in my local paper of persons whom I knew having been cured of similar cases by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, so I tried them, and in a short time I could climb the stairs with ease, a thing I could not before do for years. I did not give them a fair trial, however, until a year ago, and after using a few boxes, the life came into my limbs and feet, and I was soon able to resume work. I can now bend my legs and straighten my back, which I had not done for years previous to the use of the pills. I consider myself completely cured, and give the entire credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I most cheerfully recommend them to the use of all persons afflicted with similar diseases."

To confirm his story beyond all doubt Mr. Doyle made the following affidavit:

Sworn and subscribed before me, April 29th, 1905.

FRED. H. McMULLEN,

Justice of the Peace.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

Golf and Bicycle Clothes.

The love of outing and the introduction of golf and the bicycle craze have given men great opportunities this autumn and winter for diversity of costume; in fact, the tailors' circulars and the haberdashers' windows are filled with golf and cycling patterns. A golfer, as well as a cyclist, needs Scotch woolen stockings and ties to match, as well as knickerbocker and the Norfolk jacket for ordinary occasions, and the golfer must have his club uniform coat for tournaments and matches, which seem to be occurring every few days. Hosiery is the best material for these outing costumes, and the choice of patterns and colors at the shops is varied and extensive. Brown with a bit of red, or grays with threads of the same bright contrasting shade, seem to be the favorites, and the rather brilliant tie, with as much red as is consistent for the entire outfit, is worn to give it a last dash of color. Golf and cycling caps are made of the same material as the suit.—Harper's Bazar.

About Jewelers.

Heavy, slow and clumsy in most work, they are clever and skillful in basket making; the costly Chilcot blankets give evidence of their ability in weaving, while their carving in wood, stone and silver with their primitive tools is truly surprising. The dime, the quarter, the dollar and the half dollar under their hammers and knives are converted into rings, bracelets and spoons, all smoothly finished and carved with characteristic devices. A shapeless stone becomes a miniature chief with every figure in blanket and headdress accurately reproduced. Their more serious carvings, especially the totem poles, suggest the early days of Egyptian art. The Indian has a mania for clocks, and the living as well as the dead have in their homes an array of stopped clocks. To him a clock is a clock, whether it runs or not.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Garner and the Monkeys.

Prof. Garner writes from Africa that he is busy at work interviewing the chimpanzees and expects to return to America early in 1906. Primitive Africa impresses him as a wonderful problem. Some of his thoughts about it run thus: "Here are found the largest monkeys and the smallest men. The chimpanzees have musical instruments around which they hold a dance, while there are tribes of savages so low and brutal as never to have invented a musical instrument. Monkey tribes, gorilla tribes and chimpanzee tribes are organized. They have leaders and governors. They seem to have a rude system of government of the forest."—Detroit Free Press.

Unchanging.

"Your age," said the interviewer, who has more energy than diplomacy, "is 27, is it not?" "Yes," replied the actress. "How did you know?" "I looked over the files of a newspaper in which you were interviewed 25 years ago. That's what it said there."—Washington Post.

CONGRESS.

Condensed Report of the Past Week's Proceedings.

THE senate was not in session on the 23d. There was a small attendance in the house. The speaker announced that he had inadvertently omitted the name of Mr. Tracy, of Missouri, from the committee on naval affairs in announcing the committees. Several bills were introduced. Mr. Dingley, chairman of the ways and means committee, stated that in view of the president's request it was not considered advisable to take the usual holiday recess and stated, also, when the financial relief bill would be ready. The house then adjourned until Tuesday morning.

THE senate on the 24th passed without division a bill to remove the political disabilities of ex-confederates. Several senators spoke in favor of the bill, which repeals the law passed soon after the war prohibiting the enlistment of ex-confederates in the army or navy. Mr. Hawley (Conn.) offered a bill authorizing the secretary of war to issue Springfield rifles to state military organizations in exchange for old guns. He stated that this had no reference to war but was a matter of business. Mr. Squire (Wash.) spoke against the practice of employing foreign engineers on American ships and offered a bill to overcome the practice. Adjourned until Friday the 27th. The speaker laid before the house a telegram from the Brazilian chamber of representatives congratulating congress upon President Cleveland's worthy message which so nobly defends the Monroe doctrine. Among the bills introduced were a bill by Mr. Beach for reciprocity with certain countries, and a bill authorizing the president to call an international conference of American republics. Mr. McClellan offered a bill authorizing a bank note circulation of $500,000,000, to be issued to national banks, etc. Mr. Price offered a revenue bill; Mr. Tracy, a bill to prevent the stopping of pensions, and Mr. Gibson a bill granting a monthly pension of $50 to all helpless soldiers. Adjourned until Thursday.

THE senate was not in session on the 26th. The house had an animated session on the special tariff bill. The bill is limited to 24 years in its operation and is intended to raise $50,000,000 annually to the deficit. When the house met, by a party vote a rule was adopted limiting debate on the bill and providing for a final vote at five o'clock. The democrats opposed the rule, but it was adopted by 213 to 89 after a lively debate. The tariff bill was then debated until five o'clock, at which hour the previous question was ordered and the bill passed, 201 yeas to 81 nays. During the brief debate the republicans contended that the first necessity for the treasury was revenue to supply the continued deficiency. Every speaker denied that the proposed measure was a republican protection bill. It was, they claimed, an emergency revenue bill on protective lines. The democrats took the position that there was no lack of revenue in the treasury and that the passage of the bill to increase taxation would in no wise help the situation nor furnish the relief desired by the president and secretary of the treasury. The bill passed repeals the present tariff law until August 1, 1896. It restores 60 per cent. of the McKinley rates on wool and woolsens, lumber and carpets and makes a horizontal increase of the present rates in all other schedules, except sugar, of 15 per cent.

THE senate proceedings were somewhat enlivened on the 27th by a spirited debate on gold bonds, which was precipitated by Mr. Hill's resolution directing that future bond issues to renew the gold reserve should contain a provision that they should be payable in gold or silver at the option of the holder. Mr. Hill spoke in favor of his resolution. Messrs. Teller and Allen took part in the debate, which at one time was quite personal. After passing a joint resolution transferring the territorial governmental machinery of Utah to the state the senate adjourned. The whole day in the house was devoted to debate on the proposed bond bill, which continued until 10 o'clock at night. Without reaching a final vote on the bill the house adjourned until Saturday morning.

RAILWAY BUILDING.

The Record for 1895 Said to Be the Lowest for Twenty Years.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—According to the Railway Age for December 27, railway building in the United States reached this year a lower point than in any of the last 20 years, and in only two years since 1865 has so small a mileage been built. The records for 1895 show only 1,782 miles of track laid. In the eight years since that time the decrease in construction has been great and continuous, and this year the total built was only about 100 miles more than in the year 1855—40 years ago. The greatest amount of track laid was in Texas, where 224 miles were put down. In 15 states no increases whatever were made. The railways of the United States on December 31 will aggregate a little over 181,000.

This gives to this wide-awake firm the largest catalogue trade in America. In the year 1894, the De Kalb Fence Co., of De Kalb, Ill., doubled the capacity for producing their lines over 1893 which gave them an output of 20 miles per day. The demand for their goods has been so great the past season, that in order to be able to supply their trade, they have been compelled this year to double the capacity of 1894, which now gives them an output of 40 miles per day.

This in itself speaks well for their product and merits the attention and inspection of readers and all that are in need of smooth wire fencing of any kind. It will be to your interest to write for their catalogue, which describes in detail their goods, comprising the largest and most complete lines of smooth wire fencing now produced by any one plant in the country.
